Art Unit: 3622

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 6-47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The claims include language concerning a parsing program for creating various keys which is not found in the specification.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 6,7, 11-22, 26-33, 37-47 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Herz et al., patent number 5,754,938.

Herz et al. teaches a server system for providing consumer privacy comprising : an identity program for assigning a pseudo identity to a consumer (col. 37, lines 15-20); a consumer information database including specification regarding preferences (col. 32, lines 30-45, col. 31, lines 45-55); and a parsing program for creating a browsing key, a payment key, a shipping key, a registration key, and a messaging key (col. 33, lines 45-55, col. 36, lines 25-35, col. 38, lines 50-65, col. 39, lines 10-65). Herz also teaches a specification regarding a product contains a plurality of parameters (col. 26, lines 40 – col. 27, line 60); the consumer information contains preferences regarding use of the pseudo-identity including an election to receive unsolicited promotions and an election to place a restriction on any message addressed to the pseudo-identity (col. 45, line 30 – col. 48, line 20); the product is a tangible or intangible product (col. 31, lines 35-45, col. 4, lines 45-50); identity program assigning a pseudo-identity to a vendor (col. 35, lines 5-15).

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 8-10, 23-25, 34-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Herz as above in view of Gabber et al., patent number 5,961,593. Herz substantially teaches the invention but does not include password information in the consumer information. Gabber teaches including password information as part of the consumer information (col. 6, lines 40-55, 60-67, col. 8, lines 20-35). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have included password information since this would have been adopted for the intended use of registration of sites requiring passwords. It also would have been obvious to have included password hints since these are well known in the art for providing additional security which would have been desirable for protection of the user profile. It also would have been obvious to have assigned a single use pseudo-identity since this would have been adopted for the intended use of providing several pseudonyms to the user (col. 36, lines 44-50) while preventing fraudulent transactions as is well known in the art.

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
